We have to speak out, and not stay silent about violence.

To make it clear that violence is not okay in our community.

To take action when we see violence.

We have the power to create safer relationships!

And families!

And schools!

And communities!

We all have the Power to become aware, to give support, to take action to prevent violence and HIV.

Discussion Questions
1. How are you using your power in your relationship?
2. How are you using your power in the community?
3. How could you use your power to help others become aware of the connection between violence and HIV/AIDS?
4. How could you join your power with others’ to support people living with violence and/or HIV/AIDS?
5. How could you use your power to support others speaking out about the connection between violence and HIV/AIDS?
6. How could you use your power to take action to prevent violence against women and HIV?
7. Whose responsibility is it to create change in our relationships? Our families? Our communities?
8. Why is it important to use our power as individuals and as a group?

Contact us:

www.raisingvoices.org/sasa.php

Take Action!

We have the power to create safer relationships!

And families!

And schools!

And communities!

To take action when we see violence.
Be Aware! Give Support!

We must talk to others, so they understand that violence can cause HIV.

And that HIV infection can bring violence.

And that girls and women are at most risk because of the lack of power they often have in their relationships with men.

If we don’t start preventing violence, we won’t be able to prevent HIV.

We need to start with ourselves, with our own relationships — creating safety and balanced power within them!

We can also support those speaking out about violence and HIV/AIDS. We can join our voices with theirs!

We can also reach out to others experiencing violence.

And those using violence too.

We can also reach out to others experiencing violence.