

Faith

Know, Say, Do?

Card Game

The SASA! Faith Card Game is a great way to get single-sex or mixed groups—women and men, adults and youth—to casually and comfortably talk about power, violence against women, and HIV. Card games are as much entertainment as they are opportunities for discussion, learning and reflection.

Here are some ways to use the Card Game:

- Use the Card Game to lighten the mood after serious discussions and debates.
- Play the Card Game during lunch breaks at training sessions.
- Share the Card Game after working with a women's or men's groups, after prayer groups, for those who want to stay behind and further explore the issues or while people are waiting for meetings to begin.
- Have community activists play the Card Game with their friends in the faith community.
- Give the Card Game to faith-based health clinics, youth groups, community action groups, etc. Everyone can enjoy!

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

What do
you do?

SASA!
Faith

Instructions

Two to six players are recommended for this game.

Cut the cards on the dotted line, keeping this instruction card separate.

Place each pile of cards face down, so that no one can see the specific questions, and they can only see: "What do you do?"

On each player's turn, s/he selects a card. The player reads the card aloud and then tries to answer the question. If the other players like the answer, the player who answered can keep the card. If other players do not agree with the answer, they can suggest a different answer and put the card back into the pile.

The first player to collect three cards wins!

You hear your neighbor beating his wife at night. What do you do?

Your daughter comes back home and says she is experiencing violence in her marriage. What do you do?

A young woman in your prayer group is often seen with older men. You are worried about her. What do you do?

Your friend tells you she has been raped. What do you do?

Your husband doesn't beat you, but you feel scared of him. What do you do?

You know beating your wife is not right, but you feel that sometimes you can't stop. What do you do?

You're not sure if your wife/ husband wants to have sex or not, but you are in the mood. What do you do?

Your relative is HIV positive. What do you do to help?

Your wife is HIV positive. Your family tells you to leave and find another wife. What do you do?

Your relative asks you to be with her when she tells her husband she is HIV positive. What do you do?

A woman in your faith community is regularly kicked out of her house and has to sleep outside. What do you do?

You are worried that you are HIV positive. What do you do?

Your son refuses to let his wife attend activities in the faith community. What do you do?

You want to balance power in your relationship but don't know how. What do you do?

You have partners outside your marriage. You realize this is not allowing your wife to live in dignity. What do you do?

You are arguing with your partner. Your friends tell you to come drink your troubles away. What do you do?

You want to share household responsibilities with your partner. What do you do?

In your relationship, you and your partner are equal. Other people laugh at you. What do you do?

In your faith community, you know that many men are using violence? What do you do?

In your faith community, you know that many women and girls are experiencing violence. What do you do?

You see a child watching their father shout at their mother. What do you do?

You have been asked for ideas on how to prevent violence against women in our faith community. What could you do?

You are offering premarital counseling to a couple. You notice the young woman is afraid of the man. What do you do?

You are among the few people that know a well-respected member of the faith community has been abusing young women. What do you do?